Hall Fingerprint Forgery Hinted

terposed, "but he has qualified only as a fingerprint expert."

Kuhne had not been allowed to answer McCarter's question when noon recess was called.

Witnesses Shut Out

"My witnesses under subpoena have been refused admittance at the door," Simpson complained as the afternoon session began.

"It is imperative that they be in here to hear the testimony. There seems to be room for plenty of spectators who look on this thing as a social gathering."

The defense made a similar complaint. Justice Parker ordered that both sides identify their witnesses and bring them in, if necessary ejecting spectators to seat them.

Gerhardt Kuhne resumed the stand, and Simpson, aided by Lieut. Schwartz, continued his cross-examination.

"There is on this card the erased letters 'H. 6 I. T.' On the upper left hand corner, set in a drawing that looks like little windows, are the erased figures '816,'" said the witness.

Takes Slam at Witness

Simpson objected when McCarter asked his witness about photostatic copies of the prints.

"Now he is going to qualify him as a photographer. He'll be an astronomer in a minute."

"How long have you been a photographer?" Simpson asked.

"I am not a photographer," John R. Phillips, Jr., was called by the defense. A bailiff went into the hall with Phillips, who is an Asbury Park lawyer.

The defense in cross-examination of Schwartz, one of the state fingerprint experts, dictated the lines of Phillips's testimony today—that Schwartz showed him the rector's calling card three or four months after the slaying and there was no smudge on it then. The smudge, according to Schwartz's testimony, was on at that time, having been placed there in the developing of the print the week of September 18, 1922.

Q. Do you know Edward L. Schwartz? A. Yes; there he is, with the glasses on his forehead.

Q. Do you remember about the time of the murder of Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills? A. I do, yes.

Q. Three or four months later, did Mr. Schwartz at his house show you the visiting card of Mr. Hall, which he took from his pocket-book? A. He did.

Q. At that time was the card smudged? A. It had no smudges on it.

Q. Did he then tell you it was the card found at the feet of Mr. Hall? A. He did.

Q. Did he also tell you that he was miffed, or hurt, or sore that he had been taken off the Hall-Mills case? A. Yes, words to that effect.

Q. Did you see him at his house

Dr. Straton Urges Penalty For Perjury in Hall Case

By REV. JOHN ROACH STRATON, D. D.

Pastor Calvary Baptist Church, New York
(Copyright, 1926, The New York Evening GRAPHIC. All rights reserved. Reproduction prohibited.)

Every witness in a court of law makes oath on the Bible that he will tell "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth." Yet those who are best informed as to conditions today in connection with the administration of our criminal law tell us that there is an appalling amount of perjury in the courts about which nothing is ever done.

Aldermen Scored As Rubber Stamps By Fair Colleague

Mrs. Ruth Pratt, the only woman member of the Board of Aldermen speaking on the budget of $500,000,000 this afternoon, referred to her colleagues as rubber stamps, and upbraided them for their extravagance.

She declared that they were as unconcerned over Mrs. Ruth Pratt this, the biggest budget in the history of the city, as they would be over an appropriation of $6,000 for an automobile for some department head. She said that the Board of Estimate, which has already adopted the budget, is an inspired body, and that a bill should be introduced in Albany to abolish the Board of Aldermen, and thereby save the taxpayers half a million dollars a year.

She then pointed out what she called extravagances as the new jobs which had been created in the various departments.

Victim Nabs Two Amateur Bandits

J. Edward Kennedy, 53, and Samuel Griseman, 36, entered Miller's restaurant at 196th Street and 2d Avenue late last night, walked up to Miller and demanded the night's receipts. Griseman flashed a chief deputy's badge, Kennedy a gun.

They were overpowered, both seemed dazed. Kennedy has been a chief petty officer in the navy for thirty years.

Magistrate Brough, in Essex Market Court, held them without bail for hearing Friday on charges of felonious assault, attempted extortion and carrying pistols.

GULF EXPRESS DERAILED, REPORT MANY INJURED

MOBILE, ALA., Nov. 23 (By U. P.).—The speeding southbound Gulf Special of the Mobile & Ohio Railroad was derailed near Oak Grove, Ala., early today.

Several passengers were injured, but early reports said no one had been killed.

in Monmouth county last August? A. Yes, in the roadway to his garage.

Q. Did he at that time make any reference to his automobile? A. Yes.

Q. When was that? A. On a Tuesday night, either of August 31 or the week before that.

Q. Did he tell you then that he was as good if not a better fingerprint expert than Faurot or Drewen? Did he not ask you if you knew any of the defense attorneys, saying he would like to be retained by them? A. Yes, sir; words to that effect.

Q. Did he say that Fitzpatrick had given him the card; that it had Willie's fingerprint on it? Did he say that the prints had certain weaknesses that were favorable to the defense? A. Yes, sir; he did; in words to that effect.

We have had in the Hall-Mills case already some evidence of a mutually contradictory character.

There is always, of course, the possibility of being honestly mistaken, but the probability of that in connection with plain matters of fact would seem to be remote.

The public, therefore, confronted with the record of flatly contradictory statements from two witnesses in a case always feels like applying to such witnesses the remark of one who said to his friend:—

"Jim, I will not call you a liar, but I will say that you certainly do handle the truth economically!"

And sometimes, when the transgressions of witnesses are very flagrant, one feels that they should be dealt with after the manner of the old Quaker with his erring younger brother. This lad had riled the older man to the breaking point, and, though he was a man of great piety and forbearance, he finally called his brother to him and exclaimed:—

"Jonathan, I do not desire to deal harshly with thee; but, Jonathan, if the governor of Pennsylvania should now say to me, 'Bring hither the greatest liar in the state of Pennsylvania,' I would come to thee and say, 'Jonathan, the governor hath need of thee!'"

Already Will Rogers, and some of our other humorists, are making their jokes about how the entire population of Middlesex and Somerset counties happened to be keeping love trysts, or joy riding, or strolling, or shooting off burglars in De Russays Lane the particular night of these murders.

It is an unfortunate thing, from one side, that this terrible tragedy should be made the occasion of jokes, but the mere fact that already jokes are being made about it should in itself constitute a call to the authorities to see that "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth" is told about these events by those who claim to know; and where witnesses contradict each other, or tell palpable lies, the authorities ought to trace those things down and see that punishment to the limit is meted out against such wrongdoers.

At this point, also, English law is much stronger than our American law, so far as its administration at least is concerned. The courts of England will simply not be trifled with. Perjury, especially in connection with murder cases, is regarded rightly as a heinous crime, which it really is, because it itself involves the taking of human life and makes the perjurer participants criminis.

It will be, therefore, a most wholesome and healthful thing if both the state and the defense in this case hold a high, stiff standard at this point, and let the witnesses in the case know that if there is any lying done on either side it will be ferreted out with merciless fidelity and punished to the absolute limit of the law.

Because of the world-wide publicity that this case has won for itself, any sort of weakness, lightness or triviality in the handling of it will do great damage by further weakening the respect of people for our laws and the fear of would-be wrongdoers of the law.

Don't miss Dr. Straton's startling analysis of the Hall-Mills trial every day exclusively in The GRAPHIC.
